Wherever There’s a Fight, by Elaine Elinson and Stan Yogi, will be awarded the Gold Medal in the category of Californiana for the 79th California Book Awards on June 3, 2010 at 6 p.m. at the Commonwealth Club, 595 Market Street in San Francisco. Since 1931, the California Book Awards have honored the exceptional literary merit of California writers and publishers.

Wherever There’s a Fight is the first-ever account of the struggle to develop and protect rights in the Golden State and captures the sweeping story of how freedom and equality have grown in California, from the gold rush right up to the precarious post-9/11 era. The book tells the stories of the brave individuals who have stood up for their rights in the face of social hostility, physical violence, economic hardship, and political stonewalling.

"[Wherever There’s a Fight] should itself become required reading in our state's underfunded and largely segregated schools."
—San Francisco Chronicle

"Elinson (coauthor of The Development Debacle) and Yogi (co-editor of Highway 99) offer crucial perspective on the history of minority rights in a state long considered a political trendsetter....Readers will find this an essential reference in navigating the slogan-riddled civil rights issues of the day."
—Publishers Weekly (starred review)
